

Product Review

slickFISH Lures

Designed to mimic the action of a wounded baitfish, a slickFISH lure falls slowly and stays in the strike longer where it catches the attention of predator fish, such as reds and trout. What the fish don't see though are any signs of hooks protruding from the lure. Hidden inside the body of the lure are twin retractable hooks that will be released when a fish strikes. With no exposed hooks, the lure can be easily worked through grass, over reefs and around other structure without fear of hanging up.

The slickFISH comes in a variety of body colors as well as tail colors that can be purchased separately.

For more information, including where to purchase, visit www.slickfishlure.com.

Tool Logic

The SL Pro from Tool Logic is a compact multifunction tool featuring a razor sharp knife with interchangeable bright LED lights, with one of 5 different tools on the opposite end of each light. The lights are inserted into the knife and retracted when the tool on the opposite end is needed for a task such as sharpening, fire starting, field stripping a Glock pistol, or providing a light that will attach to anything magnetic.

In low light conditions with the LED light illuminated, the knife can be used to easily perform such tasks as fish and game cleaning as well as other common chores around the campground.

In addition to the SL Series, Tool Logic offers a variety of other versatile tools that are innovative and practical for camping, fishing and hunting, as well as golfing, and tasks in the kitchen, home and office.

To find the tool that's right for you, visit Tool Logic at www.toollogic.com.

Red Fish on a Fly

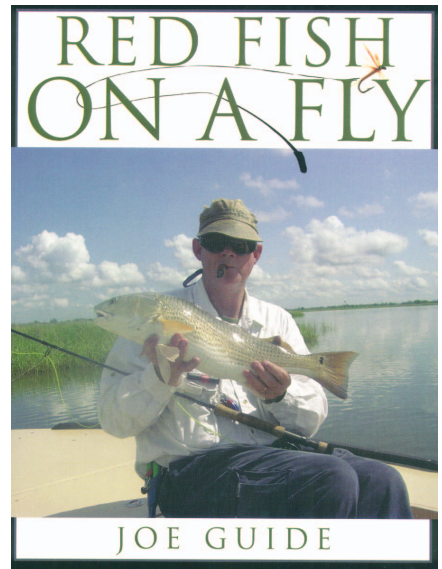

Having fished in the nine major "redfish states" for over thirty years, Navy Chaplain Walter "Sonny" Dinkins has put forth considerable time and effort to meld his love for the sport and experience on the water into his recently published book Red Fish on a Fly.

Dinkins provides an in-depth resource for understanding the habits and habitat of reds in the 29 chapters with numerous color photos.

Individual chapters are devoted to reds state by state from Virginia to Texas.

Red Fish on a Fly is available online at Borders.com, Barnes & Noble.com, Books-a-million.com, Authorhouse.com and Amazon.com.

Editor's Note: As of this printing, Chaplain Dinkins is stationed somewhere in the Horn of Africa providing support to the Armed Forces and no doubt teaching fly fishing techniques to the locals whenever the opportunity presents itself.

ARC Dehookers

ARC Dehookers instantly and safely remove hooks from the lip, mouth, throat and esophagus of fish, sea turtles, marine mammals and sea birds without touching or removing them from the water. This releases your catch in a manner that ensures the maximum probability of survival as mandated by National Standard 9 of the Magnuson-Stevens Act.

ARC Dehookers are made in the USA of a high-grade stainless steel and come in various lengths and sizes to release fish as small as a pan fish or as large as a shark.

Thank you for being a good STEWARD of our fisheries environment.

For more information on the ARC Dehookers, call 1-877-411-4ARC (4272), or visit their web site at www.dehooker4arc.com.

